The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the car was the cold. It was a sharp contrast to the warm blanket of the car's interior. I shivered slightly, pulling my coat tighter around me. The air was crisp and clean, a welcome change from the stuffy atmosphere of the office. I took a deep breath, savoring the moment. The sun was shining brightly, casting long shadows on the pavement. I walked slowly, enjoying the feel of the ground beneath my feet. The world was so different here, so much more alive. I felt a sense of freedom, a sense of possibility. I was no longer just a person in a job, I was a person living.
 I was taking a chance, a chance to start over, to begin again. I was stepping out into the unknown, and I was doing it with a smile.
